Fingerpicking allows for more intricate melodies and can create a softer, more delicate sound. Practice fingerpicking patterns that can accompany the melody while maintaining rhythm.

2. Hammer-Ons and Pull-Offs

These techniques add expressiveness to your playing. A hammer-on involves striking a note and then using a finger to tap another note on the same string, while a pull-off involves plucking a string and then pulling your finger off to allow another note to ring.

3. Slides and Bends

Sliding between notes can create a smooth transition, while bending notes can add a bluesy feel to your playing. Practice these techniques to incorporate them into your solos.
