Material and Construction

The North Pole Trading Company Sherpa blanket is constructed using a combination of plush polyester fibers and soft sherpa fleece. This blend offers an ultra-soft feel on one side with a fluffy, insulating sherpa lining on the reverse, providing maximum warmth and comfort. The manufacturing process ensures that the fibers are densely packed to enhance durability and reduce shedding.

Fabric Composition

The outer layer typically consists of microfiber polyester, which is known for its smooth texture and resistance to wrinkles. The sherpa lining is made from high-pile polyester fleece, designed to mimic the softness and insulating properties of natural sheepskin without the maintenance challenges.

Durability Features

Attention to stitching and edge finishing contributes to the blanket's durability. Reinforced edges prevent fraying, and the dense fiber construction resists pilling and wear from regular use. These features ensure that the blanket maintains its quality over time, even with frequent washing and handling.

Thermal Insulation

The thick sherpa fleece traps heat effectively, providing a cozy environment for sleep or lounging. Its breathability ensures that it does not cause overheating, maintaining a comfortable temperature balance.

Maintaining the North Pole Trading Company Sherpa blanket is straightforward, contributing to its appeal for everyday use. The materials used are machine washable and designed to retain softness and shape after multiple washes.

Washing Instructions

It is recommended to wash the blanket in cold water on a gentle cycle with mild detergent. Avoiding bleach and fabric softeners helps preserve the fabric integrity and color vibrancy.
